Données politiques :

The first regional elections were held in December 2020. The ruling party, the Cameroon People's Democratic Movement (CPDM), won nine out of ten regions. These elections mark the beginning of the decentralization process provided for in the 1996 Constitution. The new regional councilors will work with the Ministry of Decentralization and Local Development to gradually transfer power and necessary funds to the regions. The presidential elections are scheduled for October 2025. And while the question of a new candidacy for President Paul Biya is being raised, the opposition is consulting with a view to a possible single candidacy. A stable country for several decades, Cameroon has been facing attacks by the Boko Haram group in the Far North region and a separatist movement in the English-speaking regions for several years. Since September 2017, this situation has caused the displacement of more than a million people within the country and Cameroon has hosted approximately 470,000 refugees. Following the resurgence of the crisis in the Central African Republic since January 2021, more than 6,000 Central African refugees have fled to the Eastern region of Cameroon, which already hosted more than 60% of Central African refugees. According to figures from the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) as of July 2024, Cameroon currently hosts more than 472,000 refugees, mainly from the Central African Republic (73%) and Nigeria (26%).

Indicateurs politiques :

Données économiques :

Cameroon's economic recovery slowed in 2023, with real GDP growth of only 3.3%, compared to 3.6% in 2022. Until early 2024, all estimates of real GDP growth in 2023 hovered around 4.0%, but the latest national accounts for the last two quarters of 2023 showed a sharp slowdown in growth. This slowdown was observed in the primary, secondary and tertiary sectors, in a context of ongoing fiscal consolidation, rising domestic inflation and multiple sources of fragility, including internal conflicts.

OPERATIONS & HISTORIQUE

Activités :

Description complète : The Single Window for Foreign Trade Operations (GUCE) is the result of a partnership between the State of Cameroon and economic operators. It was created following discussions among these various parties regarding the difficulties encountered during customs formalities at the port of Douala, for both imports and exports. The conclusion was clear: excessive delays and resulting costs, denounced as detrimental to the local economy and leading to the diversion of maritime traffic to other ports. Faced with this situation, the State of Cameroon and the professional organizations involved in the customs clearance process decided to create the GUCE, whose objective is to simplify foreign trade procedures and reduce costs and delays by bringing together all stakeholders, both physically and virtually.

CONCLUSION ET AVIS

Commentaire

Established in 2000, the Single Window for Foreign Trade Operations (GUCE) is the government-run body responsible for facilitating foreign trade operations.

The Single Window for Foreign Trade Operations (GUCE), a result of a public-private partnership, is an Economic Interest Group (EIG) whose mission is to facilitate trade and simplify foreign trade procedures in order to reduce the costs and transit times of goods at Cameroon's borders. GUCE brings together technical administrations, public enterprises, and private companies in the supply chain.

On November 5, 2025, in Douala, the directors general of the National Shippers' Council of Cameroon (CNCC) and the Single Window for Foreign Trade Operations (GUCE) signed a protocol for collaboration and information sharing to accelerate the modernization and digitalization of trade operations.

The agreement provides for the pooling of training, awareness-raising, and communication efforts among stakeholders in the supply chain to facilitate change management and the adoption of digital procedures. It includes technical assistance and monitoring tools to support operators.

To date, the Single Window boasts over 35 digitized procedures and, between 2012 and 2023, the collection of 8,210 billion FCFA in customs duties and 98 billion FCFA in taxes.

For the past two years, GUCE has been ISO 9001:2015 certified. This certification attests to its commitment to practices that comply with international standards for digitalization and quality management. Given its state-owned nature, business transactions would be possible on a moderate basis by providing guarantees.
